"The Hot Pink Pen"

Blog conceived, created, and maintained
by Jan Lisa Huttner

www.TheHotPinkPen.com

"The Hot Pink Pen" (aka "Penny") is the nom de guerre of Jan Lisa Huttner, a longtime Feminist activist and self-professed advocate for women directors and screenwriters. Penny's goal is to help women (and men) in audiences everywhere find some of the wonderful films that have been made (and will be made in future) by women filmmakers.

The bells Penny rang in 2009 (about the elimination of Slumdog Millionaire's credited co-director Loveleen Tandan from Oscar contention) were heard all around the world...

"Second City Tzivi" (aka "Tziviah Bat Yishroel v' Hudah," which is the traditional Hebrew way to say "Jan, Daughter of Eddie & Helene") is the nom de plume of Jan Lisa Huttner, creator of the monthly column "Tzivi's Spotlight" in Chicago's JUF News. Tzivi is also the Chicago YIVO Society's eMaven (which is the Yiddish way to say "web expert").

“It Takes a Village!”

Huge thanks to my husband Richard, my BFF Dorthea, & my schvester Elisa. More thanks to my JUF News editors Aaron Cohen & Cindy Sher, Martha Richards of WomenArts, and all the incredible artists, authors, & filmmakers I had the privilege to interview &/or otherwise engage with in 2009. And to all the members of “Team Jan” (who provide so much encouragement & support), you all have my deepest gratitude ☺
